COLLEGE STUDENTS WRECK ALBION JAIL TO FREE COMPANIONS

State Police Unable To Halt Rioting; Arrest 63

ALBION, Mich., Feb. 14.—A hundred Albion College students early today tore down the front of the city jail with pick axes to release thirteen fellow students held by police after a riot at a theater.

Unable to cope with the mob, police called for aid. State police from Jackson and Marshall and officers from Harsale were called. They used tear gas bombs without effect. The riot finally was quelled when John Seaton, president of the Methodist College, pleaded with the students.

The thirteen students who escaped were to be arraigned today on charges of breaking jail. Fifty others were to be taken to court on disorderly conduct charges.

The rioting began after the Albion basketball team administered a surprise defeat to the team from Alma College.

The students rushed toward the Bohm Theater in the hopes of gaining free admission. They were refused admission, but 150 managed to force their way in.

The doors of the theater were locked and thirteen, believed to be leaders, were taken to jail.

Enraged by the act of the officers, the students made their way to the prison and released their companions.

CHICAGO EMPLOYEES WILL RECEIVE PAY;
GET RELIEF MONDAY

Half Of Long Overdue
Salaries Promised
Workers

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—The gloom of 20,000 city employees who have gone home for nearly two months turned to joy today with the announcement that half of their long overdue salaries will be paid Monday in bonafide and cashable checks.

Money with which to meet the city's unpaid payroll will be borrowed partly from the city's corporate fund and partly from the vehicle tax fund, it was announced by Charles S. Peterson, city treasurer, and George K. Schmidt, city comptroller, authors of the relief move.

News of this first cash relief spread through the city hall. It came when the morale of employees was at a low ebb and rumors of a walkout were heard from many sources. Hundreds of city employees' families are facing eviction from their homes for non-payment of rent.

Another important step toward emergency cash relief came after a conference between Herbert C. Heller, New York banker, and city officials in which Heller indicated he would return here in a few days with a written offer to buy $18,000,000 worth of the city's tax warrants.

Heller announced that unless Chicago wipes out a $13,000,000 deficit the syndicate here will not go through with the proposed deal.

TWO BANDITS SLAIN
DURING ROBBERIES

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Two bandits slain outright and two more near death of bullet wounds was the toll today in Chicago's war on organized crime as posses of citizens joined with police in the campaign against crime and violence.

ALLEGED BEER RING CONSPIRATORS ARE BEING PROSECUTED

Brewmaster Fined; Five
Others Will Face
Charges

CLEVELAND, Feb. 14.—With an indictment against the Anthracite Beer Co., of Green Ridge, Pa., today before Judge Samuel H. West because the company is no longer existent, the way was cleared here today for the prosecution of principals in the so-called Ohio-Pennsylvania beer ring conspiracy.

Jacob Mayer of Scranton, Pa., brewmaster for the defunct Anthracite Co., pleaded guilty late yesterday before Judge West to charges of manufacturing intoxicating liquors. He was fined $1,500.

Five other defendants in the alleged conspiracy were scheduled for arraignment in federal court today. They are: Dominick Delamano, Nathan Morford, and Joseph Faranack, truckers; Joseph Israel and Emil Fisher, employees.

Seven additional defendants, including three from Scranton, will come to trial Monday. They are: William V. Loughran and William Quinn, reputed beer brokers of Scranton; Lester Lord, Jr., of Scranton, a clerk employed by Quinn; Charles Basso of Cleveland; Charles Graves, president of the Brook Park Coal Co., Parma, and Martin and Anthony Boyle, dry cleaners who are accused of having given protection to the beer ring operators.

The Ohio-Pennsylvania beer ring, according to federal authorities, flooded Ohio with contraband "booze" in 1924 and 1925. It operated on a huge scale with the Anthracite Beer Co. in Green Ridge its source of supply.

The star witness for the government in Monday's trial is expected to be Frank Delahanty, former state representative and major league outfielder. Delahanty, confessed partner of Basso in the beer traffic, was arrested in 1925 when a freight car load of beer was seized in the Parma Coal Co. yards. He was convicted on a conspiracy charge and later testified before the federal grand jury implicating others in the conspiracy.

Pennsylvanians who were named in the eleven conspiracy indictments returned at the time, fought removal to Ohio and six of them were ordered released by the U. S. Circuit court of appeals at Philadelphia in 1928.

HUNGER STRIKER
ADJUDGED INSANE

MASSILLON, O., Feb. 14.—Richard Stewart, starving Warren, O., rag merchant, will not eat whether he likes it or not.

This was the declaration here today of Dr. Arthur Hyde, superintendent of the Massillon Hospital for the Insane, following Stewart's commitment here upon an order of the Warren probate court which has adjudged the "hunger striker" insane.

For thirty days Stewart has refused to eat, declaring that he is "punishing" Police Judge C. B. Perry of Warren for incarcerating him in the county jail in a few days with a written offer to buy $18,000,000 worth of the city's tax warrants.

Heller announced that unless Chicago wipes out a $13,000,000 deficit the syndicate here will not go through with the proposed deal.

FRANCE'S PROGRAM HALTS PROGRESS OF NAVAL CONFERENCE

Mutual Security Pact
Offered As Alternative

LONDON, Feb. 14.—France's program for disarmament, as set forth in minute detail by Premier Andre Tardieu, today definitely blocked progress of the five-power naval conference here.

While France's submarine and eight-inch gun cruiser figures in particular are too high for Great Britain to accept without strenuous opposition, Premier Tardieu's alternative of a mutual security pact has added in placing a formidable stumbling block in the path of the parity.

In the course of a lengthy meeting at St. James' Palace today, Tardieu again stressed France's willingness to reduce her tonnage figures provided the powers formulated such a treaty. The meeting was attended by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson, First Lord of the Admiralty P. V. Alexander, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas.

While Premier Tardieu stressed a pact of "mutual guarantee and security" among the naval powers, it is believed he would accept a less definite treaty modeled along the lines of the Pacific pact of the Washington conference on condition that the United States was willing to participate.

While the United States is definitely opposed to participation in such a thoroughly European agreement, if it comes to a showdown and success or failure of the conference hinges upon this pact, it is certain the American delegates would improve the possibility of participation.

Such exploration would include the sounding out of senatorial opinion on the possibility of congressional ratification.

It is known that the American delegates deplore France's pointed non-inclusion of Italy in M. Tardieu's reference to the nations with which war was "unthinkable." In his disarmament memorandum, Tardieu declared that combat with the United States or Great Britain was out of the question.

He avoided a similar reference to Italy, however, and it is felt this omission will seriously increase the Franco-Italian friction already existing.

The Italian delegates are sitting tight, and for the present have no intention of issuing a memorandum insisting upon parity with the monumental French figures announced yesterday.

WETS ORGANIZED TO WAGE RELENTLESS
FIGHT IN CONGRESS

To Carry Campaign
Down To Session's
Final Day

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Confident they are making progress in their "educational" campaign, congressional wet forces today promised to wage a relentless battle against prohibition to the final day of this session.

Although the present congressional furor over the dry law was started by a dry when Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, charged a breakdown in enforcement, the wets are now organized to finish the campaign.

Dry leaders for the most part have declined to follow Borah and are resting secure in their legislative majority and a belief that the country as a whole still is strongly in back of the eighteenth amendment.

The attention of both factions was focused today upon the resumption of the wet bill hearings before the house judiciary committee next week, and action of the senate judiciary committee on the resolution of Senator Wheeler (D) of Montana for an investigation of prohibition enforcement.

The Wheeler resolution may be taken up Monday.

Representative Lintlithum (D) of Maryland, chief of the house "wet bloc," announced he was preparing a formidable list of witnesses for the next wet hearings.

Among them will be P. S. Dupont, Wilmington, Del., industrialist; Dr. Samuel H. Church of Pittsburgh, of the Carnegie Institute; Robert Cassatt, Philadelphia banker, and Captain W. H. Stayton of Baltimore.

APPOINTMENT OF HUGHES CONFIRMED BY SENATE

Administration Forces Win Victory By Vote Of 52
To 26; Senate Now Considers Effect Of Fight
On Economic Welfare Of Nation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—With Charles Evans Hughes free to assume his duties as chief justice of the United States, the senate today pondered the effect of its four-day battle over his confirmation on the political and economic welfare of the country.

The almost unanimous opinion, expressed alike by friends and foes of Hughes, was that the long debate in the senate would result in a liberalization of the supreme court's recent attitude on outstanding economic issues. It was frankly confessed in cloakrooms that the fight against Hughes actually screened a protest against the court's recent decisions on questions involving vested interests and corporation "property rights."

The senate felt it had demonstrated to the court that its findings in the recent O'Fallon Railroad valuation case and in recent public utility regulation suits were far from popular or in keeping with public opinion. The court in several opinions indicated it was following popular will—a conclusion that must now be changed.

The administration forces were satisfied with their victory, because Hughes was confirmed by a two-to-one vote, 52 to 26.

Declare Scores Of Crimes Are Linked
With Two Suspects

Believe Pair Killed Columbus Grocer; Deny Killing

CLEVELAND, Feb. 14.—Scores of unsolved shootings, robberies and holdups throughout Ohio were linked by police to Charles (Sonny) Hanovich, 22, and his taciturn companion, George Williams, 68, both suspects in the killing of Patrolman Carl A. Sherman here last year, as the two were subjected to a long and severe siege of grilling in central police station today.

Hanovich and Williams were returned here last night from Chicago where they were captured by Cleveland police. Hanovich has already confessed participation in the shooting in which Patrolman Sherman was killed. He denies, however, that he fired the shot that killed the policeman. Williams has maintained a stony silence.

Following Hanovich's reiteration of his version of the shooting here to police authorities, Detective Sergeant James Hogan directed his inquiries this morning to the murder of Justus Brown, Columbus grocer, who was fatally shot two weeks after the Sherman killing.

Although photographs of Hanovich and Williams are reported to have been identified by Brown's widow and son in Columbus, the youthful prisoner denied any connection with that murder.

Hanovich was also questioned at length regarding the robbery of the Provident Savings Bank and Trust Co., in Cincinnati last Nov. 27.

"I am convinced that the two were responsible for the Cincinnati robbery," Hogan declared today. "Hanovich haltingly denied knowledge of that job."

Several other robberies, including holdups of the Franklin Savings and Loan Co., and the Herings and Loan Co., here manly Savings and Loan Co., are attributed to Hanovich and Williams by police here. Victims of the two bank robberies will probably confront the two men today.

Sgt. Martin Hoffman, who was an eye-witness to the slaying of Patrolman Sherman will view the two suspects today to complete his identification.

TOLEDO WOMAN SHOT BY NEGRO BANDIT

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 14.—Mrs. Joseph Mesteller, 42, mother of three children, is near death here today after one of three negro robbers, who robbed her store, backed her against the wall and shot and fatally wounded her.

The gunman is a member of a negro bandit gang which has been terrorizing Toledo storekeepers for the past week, it is believed by police.

Mrs. Mesteller did not offer any resistance to the bandit trio. Two of the robbers had looted the cash register of $25, and were on their way outside where the third member of the gang was waiting in an automobile, when one of them shot Mrs. Mesteller.

POLICE INTERRUPT HOLDUP IN DETROIT TELEGRAPH OFFICE

Two Officers And Bandit
Dead; Three Others
Wounded

DETROIT, Feb. 14.—Three persons, two of them special policemen and one a bandit, are dead today after a bitterly-fought gun battle during the attempted holdup at the main branch of the Western Union office late last night. Two other bandits were wounded in the melee.

Police identified the bandits as the same gang which robbed the same Western Union office in a sensational holdup last week. Three other participants are still at large.

The dead: Jesse Catlin, 38, a special policeman, was shot in the abdomen, Joan Scott, 46, another special policeman, was shot in the chest and abdomen. Both died in receipt of hospital aid as did an unidentified bandit about 28.

The wounded: Patrolman Joseph H. Raals, 26, was in receiving hospital with two bullet wounds in groin. Not serious.

One customer and nine employees were threatened by the bandits guns before the shooting. Arthur Neron, special policeman, who opened fire on the thugs, was credited with saving the life of Hugh M. Griffin, night superintendent of the Western Union.

One of the robbers shouted: "I'll get you for turning in that alarm." He had leveled his pistol at Griffin's head and was just about to fire when Neron entered and began shooting.

The holdup was staged just like the one last week, but the plans were awry this time. Two of the bandits entered the revolving door on the corner while one entered through the messenger's door in the rear of the counter. One of the pair in front of the counter stood guard, threatening the employees, while the other leaped over the counter and scooped up $300 from the cash drawer.

Ash Blues, a money order clerk in the rear of the office, was able to turn in the alarm just as the thugs entered. It rang in the office of the American Silk Alarm Company, in the Western Union building, and officers were sent down the stairs on the run.

The thug behind the counter sensed that an alarm had been turned in. He wheeled on his way out and started for Griffin, cursing and leveling his gun. Just then Neron, the first policeman to get down the stairs, entered another door into the rear of the office from the building lobby and opened fire on the man aiming to shoot Griffin.

Instead of shooting at Griffin, the bandit turned his gun on Neron and fired four shots. One hit the ceiling and three lodged in the wall, a few inches from Neron's head. The policeman emptied his gun. Meanwhile the bandit in the front of the office, and the one standing by the side door, opened outside, closely followed by the thug who had entered the messenger door, and run out the same, reached the street just as Catlin and Scott ran out of the building lobby. The two officers opened fire and so did the bandits. All three fell in their tracks.

The other two thugs started for a coupe, parked across the street and dashed towards the river. When they heard the shooting between their companion and the police, they turned back.

AUTHORITIES CLAIM CHILD WAS MURDERED DURING LIQUOR FEUD

Earl Conald, Alleged Bootlegger And Father Of Junior Hanna Accuse Each Other Of Slaying;
Hanna Boy "Key" Witness In Investigation

WOOSTER, O., Feb. 14.—Charges of child-stealing, in connection with the mysterious disappearance of Melvin Horst, 4, from Orrville on the night of December 27, 1928, will be placed against Charles Hanna and Earl Conald before tonight, it was announced here today by Prosecutor Marion Graven.

The prosecutor pointed out that it is impossible to place a charge of murder against anyone until the body of a murdered person can be produced.

Prosecutor Graven also stated that a charge of delinquency would be placed against Junior Hanna, Charles Hanna's 10-year-old son.

Each alleging that the other murdered the Horst boy in a garage at Orrville on the night of December 27, 1928, Conald, 42, railroad and alleged bootlegger, and Hanna, father of Junior Hanna, were restrained from an actual fist-fight in an office in the Wayne County court house here today.

Conald, who had refused to make any statements whatever in the investigation regarding the boy's murder, until this morning, declared Hanna killed the boy in a garage where Conald stored his automobile.

Hanna, on the other hand, stuck to his former statement that Conald beat Melvin to death. Each said he was a witness to the murder when the other committed it.

The statement from Conald came after a brain-racking questioning session, which was resumed by Prosecutor Marion Graven at 5 o'clock this morning.

Hanna, in his previous declaration that Conald had murdered the boy, denied any knowledge of where the boy's body had been taken. He said that after Conald murdered Melvin, he left the garage and went home, because "he was shaky." He admitted that he and Conald had gone to the garage to have "a few drinks of liquor."

In Conald's contradicting statement, he declared that after Hanna had killed the lad, he picked his limp body up, placed it under his arm, and started toward his home. He said that he did not follow him and denied knowing anything about the details at present.

The case was opened anew here yesterday when Special Prosecutor Mouney arrested Conald, pending further investigation of surprising new information.

Junior Hanna proved the "key" witness in the new action which broke down his own story, and implicated his father and Conald. In his sworn confession yesterday, it was said that Junior stated that he had taken Melvin to the garage as he had been ordered by his father. Both men were there when the two playmates appeared, they admitted.

Junior Hanna had been under questioning all of Wednesday night and most of Thursday. It was said that this extensive questioning came as the result of a new light on the case which is said to have first developed last Tuesday.

Both Prosecutors Graven and Mouney said they regretted that the news of the new developments had been made public. They said they were unable to disclose many of the details at present.

It was on the testimony of Junior Hanna, ten-year-old playmate of Melvin Horst, that the state secured a conviction against Elias Arnold and his son, Arthur, on the charge of kidnapping Melvin. They were sentenced to Ohio penal institutions, but were later granted a new trial, as a result of which they were acquitted.

Local prosecutors announced today they had secured a confession from Junior that his testimony at the trials of the Arnolds had been false. The officials declared Junior's confession implicated his father, Charles Hanna, and Conald. Officials declared today that the murder of the Horst boy, whoever killed him, was due to a liquor feud. In a written confession which Special Prosecutor Walter J. Mouney declared he obtained from Conald, the latter asserted, according to the official, that Hanna had been engaged in illicit liquor deals with Conald for some time.

Conald and Hanna, Mouney said, "had it in for Roy Horst," uncle of Melvin, the murdered boy, who was marshal of Orrville at the time of the lad's kidnapping. Marshal Horst had been vigorously active against bootleggers.

Hanna is said to have declared, according to Conald's alleged confession, that he (Hanna) feared Marshal Horst because "he ruined the Arnolds and will ruin us, too." Hanna, in a statement to prosecutors, is quoted as saying that as far as he knows, the Arnolds had no connection whatever with the kidnapping or murder of the boy.

Junior Hanna, in his confession to Prosecutor Mouney, according to that official, declared that he lied on the witness stand to "protect daddy." Junior asserted he stuck to that story consistently throughout both trials of the Arnolds.

Hanna senior was quoted as saying he was "glad it was all over; that Junior had told the truth."

Officials believe Junior had related all he knows about the case; (Continued on Page Two)

FIND BODY OF MURDERED INFANT; PROBE STARTED

The body of a newborn baby, which had apparently been strangled and choked to death, was discovered in a thicket on the Mrs. Tobias farm, Clifton and Wilberforce Pike, one mile east of Clifton, Friday morning by William Bond, a woodchopper.

The body was found by a stump sixty feet off the roadway and was frozen, evidently having been placed there the previous evening. It was a fully developed white girl, a healthy looking infant which physicians have established was born alive. The body was not clothed and bore marks of having been gnawed by animals.

The baby, in the opinion of physicians, had been born without the attendance of a physician, a nurse or a midwife.

The woodchopper reported his discovery to H. A. McLean, marshal of Cedarville, who notified Dr. R. L. Haines, Jamestown, county coroner at 11 a. m. and the body was brought to Xenia to be taken to the establishment of Ralph M. Neely, Xenia.

Beside the body was found the end of a bath towel which had been torn off and twisted into a wad. A silk lining presumably torn from a woman's hat was also found, leading Dr. Haines to believe that the infant had been strangled with the towel and choked with the lining thrust down its throat.

An autopsy on the body was performed at Neely's Friday morning by Drs. T. F. Myler, Reyburn R. McCallan and Dr. Haines. Sheriff Omer Tate and Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall, who were notified, expect to visit the spot where the baby was found Friday afternoon and make an investigation of the apparent murder.

No clew has been uncovered, however, Dr. Haines announced.

and received compensation from the city. He further claims that he cut posts off the city farm set on Jenks' farm and got paid by the city; that he moved corn out of a barn into a crib on Jenks' farm and also fixed fences with the help of Ward and Sam Storer and received pay from the city for the labor.

The affidavit also sets forth that on December 2, 1929 while he was removing a chicken house from the city farm to the farm owned by Jenks he was injured accidentally, suffering broken ribs and a dislocated ankle and that he received two checks from the state workmen's compensation fund. He claims that Jenks told him that he could "beat him out of compensation" by swearing he was working for him (Jenks) on that date. He had already moved a chicken house and a hog house from the city farm to Jenks' farm and city employees helped load Jenks' truck and were paid by the city, Honaker asserts.

Stoker claims in a third affidavit that in November, 1929 he shredded corn and built fences for half a day for Jenks and was paid for his labor by a check from the city. Jenks, who lives on his own farm on the Towler road, had been connected with the city continuously for twenty-three years. He had acted as foreman of the laborers in charge of most of the city street repair work had been in charge of street sprinkling and had maintained trucks for hauling gravel to the city.

Commission ordered the affidavits placed on file but took no action in the matter.

that he has no knowledge of what disposition was made of the Horst boy's body.

According to Junior's statement to officials, he was instructed to bring Melvin Horst to the Hanna home, which he did. His father and Conrad were waiting there and the men took Melvin to Conrad's garage. Junior said he waited outside.

Conrad and Hanna, according to the latter's statement to Mougey, went in, with Melvin, and had some drinks. Then, Hanna claims, Conrad took the boy to the other side of his automobile, out of sight.

Hanna said he heard choking sounds and coughing, apparently coming from the boy—then a dull thud and a faint scream. All was afterwards quiet, the official statement declared.

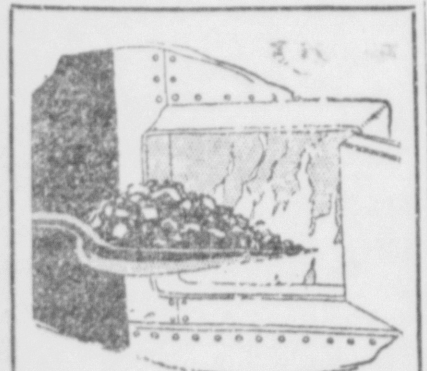

Claiming to have been "shaken," the elder Hanna asserted he immediately left the garage and returned to his home.

Junior admitted he heard the "thud" inside the garage; became afraid and ran home.

Conrad denies the Hanna stories, claiming he saw Hanna kill Melvin, tucked the dead body under his arm and disappear.

officers, they turned in the opposite direction.

They stopped and ran into the street brandishing their guns and stopped a passerby driving his automobile.

They forced him from the car and leaped in. They attempted to turn around in the street. Patrolman Raale, who had heard the shooting while walking his beat came sprinting up just at that time.

Police say they believe the dead bandit had committed suicide when he saw escape was impossible.

The bullet wound in the dead thug's head, upon casual examination, appeared to be self-inflicted, police say.

LEGION URGES CITY TO PERMIT STREETS FOR COASTING HERE

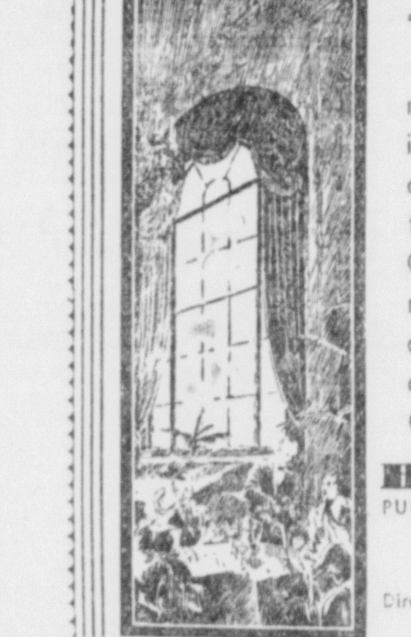

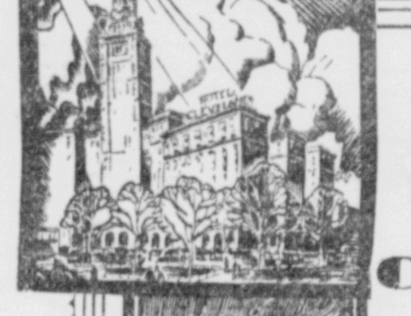

That the city provide proper coasting facilities for youngsters and also take steps to make Xenia streets safe for children was the request made to City Commission Thursday night by Paul Halder, representing Bondy Post, American Legion, which is interesting itself in the welfare of the younger generation.

Halder suggested that Hill St. and also the Galloway hill at the north end of West St. be set aside for coasting and Hill St. be roped off at certain times and traffic kept off.

City Manager M. C. Smith announced that during the period of the last heavy snow police had been instructed to give Hill St. over to coasting and that red lanterns had been placed at the top and bottom during certain hours when the children could enjoy the sport without danger of being struck by autos.

Halder also declared that a city ordinance prohibiting the practice of children hooking rides on the rear of autos should be enforced, but pointed out that adults were not setting a good example to the youngsters as one evening he personally saw a dozen "grown-ups" riding on sleds hooked onto the rear of cars.

He also advocated permitting children to roller skate on certain parts of designated streets during given hours and that roller-skaters not be allowed on sidewalks.

Halder also offered the services of Legionnaires in sweeping snow from the lagoon in Shawnee Park when it is frozen over providing the fire department will co-operate by flushing the surface in order to provide a slick coating for ice skating during cold weather.

tersection and service to consumers will be provided by means of an underground conduit system.

The city expects to wait until the poles are cleared away before installing new automatic, flashing traffic-regulating devices at Second and Detroit, Main and Detroit and Market and Detroit St. intersections. The traffic signals are gifts of the Greene County Auto Club providing the city installs and maintains them.

HOUSE DESTROYED BY FLAMES IN OSBORN

Defective wiring is being blamed for fire that destroyed a two-story frame dwelling on Xenia Drive, Osborn, owned by the Southwestern Portland Cement Co., and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Velzey and family about 11 o'clock Thursday night.

The fire started while members of the family were attending a Parent-Teacher Association playlet and had gained considerable headway when discovered. Osborn firemen were handicapped by the spread and by the fact that the residence is located some distance from a fireplug. They succeeded in removing most of the household furnishings from the first floor.

The wiring is being blamed as the house had no heating plant, being heated by the central heating plant of the cement company. Lack of wind is believed to have saved other houses owned by the company from catching fire. Loss is covered by insurance.

TRIED ALL KINDS OF LAXATIVES

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Gave Only Permanent Relief

As everybody knows, the market is flooded with cathartics, pills and other compounds for the relief of constipation. At best, whatever results are obtained are temporary. Besides, there is the danger in certain drugs and the habit-forming tendency.

Mr. P. M. Fisher, 517 Olive street, Scranton, Pa., has something to say on this subject which will be interesting to all constipation sufferers. He says:

"For many years I suffered from constipation and used, for relief, all kinds of laxatives. After a few days' treatment, I would only find my condition the same as before and at times worse."

"Some time ago I started to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly, once a day as directed. Since doing this, I have found that I do not need any other medicine to procure the desired result, and it keeps me in a very healthy condition."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or the purchase price will be refunded.

In addition, it adds needed iron to the diet. You will like its delicious flavor. There are many delightful ways to eat it. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FAY APPEALS CONVICTION IN DOG TRACK GAMBLING CASE HERE

A petition in error has been filed in the Greene County Court of Appeals by Attorney F. L. Johnson, Xenia, on behalf of Charles R. Fay, Middletown, who was convicted by a jury in Common Pleas Court six weeks ago on a charge of permitting the selling of pools on dog races at the Fairfield track last July.

Fay, who is chairman of the board of directors of the Fairfield Amusement Park, Ltd., the partnership organization which financed construction of the racing plant, was fined $500 and costs and given a suspended sentence of six months in the County Jail by Judge R. L. Gowdy, who overruled a motion for a new trial. The jail sentence was suspended on the condition Fay makes no further effort to operate the track in the event his conviction is finally upheld by the higher courts.

The petition in error asserts the trial judge erred in refusing to admit as evidence at the trial copies of two ordinances passed by the Fairfield village council designed to license the track and to legalize the contribution and refund system of wagering in vogue during the one-day meeting. The trial judge also claimed to have erred in defining the term "pool selling" in his charge to the jury and in refusing to admit expert testimony in explanation of the definition of pool selling.

GLADIOLUS DISEASES.
The gladiolus is susceptible to a number of serious diseases which may be prevented by treating the corms with a solution of bichloride of mercury, according to Paul Tilford, associate in plant pathology at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

Hard rot and scab attack both leaves and corms. Dry rot and certain other diseases affect only the corms. The general effect is to spot the leaves, rot them off at the surface of the soil, rot the corms and either kill the plant or weaken it so that a poor flower is produced. These diseases live over from one season to the next on the corms and in the soil. Since they live for several years in the soil great care should be taken to not introduce them to the soil, especially if gladioli are to be grown in the same soil year after year.

Mr. Tilford suggests that the corms be sorted over carefully before planting time and all that show any rot lesions be discarded and burned. It is best, he says, if only a few corms are planted, to hush each one to make sure that no rots are present.

After the corms have been carefully sorted they should be disinfected by soaking for two hours in a solution of bichloride of mercury made by dissolving one ounce of the bichloride powder in about a quart of hot water and then diluting with water to 7 1/2 gallons. A ten gallon crock is a convenient container in which to treat small quantities of corms.

The treatment can be made in the spring just before planting time or any time during the winter when it is convenient. If treated before planting the corms should be dried before being put back in storage.

WANTED: ONE CITY DOCTOR
CITY Commission is seeking—so far without success—to obtain the services of a physician to act in the capacity of poor doctor in city charity cases.

City Manager M. C. Smith advertised for bids for the contract for one year but no bids were received by the date specified, February 13.

For the past several years Dr. Frank M. Chambliss had acted in this capacity but his election as a city commissioner automatically disqualified him from receiving additional compensation from the city from this source and he resigned the position, prior to taking office.

Dr. Chambliss suggested that the question be brought to the attention of the Greene County Medical Society.

RECORD AT LIBRARY IS BROKEN
JANUARY was a banner month at the County Library for during that time three records were broken.

Never before has the 8,000 mark been reached by any monthly circulation at the main library but in January 8,575 books were circulated from there alone, or an increase of 761 books over the previous January.

The month also included the highest single day's circulation and the highest weekly circulation of books ever recorded in Xenia. On one day alone 529 books were drawn from the library while over 2100 were drawn during one week.

The librarian's report also showed increased circulation in all the library branches with the exception of Yellow Springs branch. The decrease there was due to a temporary closing of the library necessitated by a move into new quarters.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

I know, and am persuaded by the Lord Jesus, that there is nothing unclean of itself; but to him that esteemeth any thing to be unclean, to him it is unclean.—Romans xiv, 14.

THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND

A resolution calling for a commission to inquire into the present relations of the Church of England to the state was adopted this week by the church assembly in London. The archbishop of York introduced it and the archbishop of Canterbury strongly supported it. The question with which the commission will wrestle is that of disestablishment.

What appears to have brought the "unhappy condition" described as existing in the Church of England to a head was the recent rejection by parliament of the new prayer-book. This overriding of the church by the civil power caused great excitement at the time among churchmen; and its repercussions obviously are still being felt. The bishop of Durham declared to the assembly that disestablishment was the only way out. The archbishop of York is reported to have said:

While I still consider spiritual independence is so essential that the price of disestablishment would not be too great for it, if it must be paid, and there are no other means to insure independence, yet we must search long and carefully before we decide that the price must be paid.

The disestablishment of the Church of England would mean the removal of a pillar of the state erected in 1534, when Henry VIII caused the act of Supremacy to be passed. What its effect upon church or state would be is problematical. A church establishment appealed to Matthew Arnold as having more than religious merit. When the disestablishment of the church in Ireland was being agitated, Arnold went so far in his objection to it on cultural grounds as to write:

The great works by which, not only in literature, art and science generally, but in religion itself, the human spirit has manifested its approaches to totality and to a full, harmonious perfection, and by which it stimulates and helps forward the world's general perfection, come, not from nonconformists, but from men who either belong to establishments or have been trained in them. When they triumphantly show us America without religious establishments they only show us a whole nation touched, amidst all its greatness and promise, with that provincialism which it is our aim to extirpate in the English nonconformists.

What would Arnold say today, when the loftiest dignitaries of the institution he thus defended complain bitterly of the "sloppy" and "unwholesome" conditions existing in it, as a result of civil supremacy? Would he still contend that it is establishment that makes a church a fountain of "sweetness and light?"

CHICAGO THUGS

Recently the Chicago Tribune published a cartoon which represents its home town as a man engaged in looking at a number of creatures hiding underneath statute books and rolls of technical arguments and labeled, "The political and criminal rats who use the law to protect themselves." The impersonation is saying to himself, "How easy it would be to stamp them out, if I didn't respect the law." And the caption over all, "Yet the world calls him lawless," looks like an effort to excuse the terrific crime conditions in Chicago, or at least whitewash the reputation of the town.

But if the cartoon really has a meaning it is a declaration that the law, designed to be an instrument for the protection of society against the criminal, is no longer anything of the sort in the Windy City; but having been left unwatched and ungaurded has become a victim of misuse and distortion, and finally has actually been captured by the criminal class and has been turned against society by the members of thugland as a weapon against efforts to stop their depredations.

Insofar as the Tribune cartoon is justified the administration of law in its home town has become an evil rather than a good. This seems extreme even for Chicago, and we do not wish to believe that the situation is so bad either in that town or in any other place in America.

Yet we are afraid it is only too plain that gross prostitution of justice under the guise of strict adherence to the fine points of law exist in Chicago and in every other city of size in the country; and unquestionably this condition operates to protect flagrant and manifest offenders from punishment and deprives society of adequate safeguard from felony. There is reason to think also that conditions are fast approaching a place where extreme and perhaps radical measures will be necessary in order to restore the law to the hands and control of its friends.

HONOR PARKS

Richmond does well to hold an exposition commemorating the two hundredth anniversary of the setting up of the first printing press in Virginia. Honor William Parks. He is worth it. He put up a printing press in Williamsburg, in 1730. What a contribution he made to the cause of the revolution! What would Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton have been without a printing press? It is related that when William Parks died his debts came within $250 of his assets. But he had helped lay the foundations of a republic.

THE MIRACLE

Some days ago a number of your friends got up at five-thirty in the morning, walked into another room and listened to the King of England making a speech in London. By the next day most of us had forgotten the incident. It was commonplace. Where does a miracle begin and where does a miracle end? What is a miracle? Thrill-proof as we are, we hardly get a "kick" out of living in this astounding universe.

TWO SIDES TO THIS

The president of Yale says thousands of men would have done better if they had never been to college. We are at first inclined to be much impressed with that remark. But what about the thousands and thousands of men who would have done vastly better if they had enjoyed the opportunity of a college education? Your boy may be one of the few who will do as well or better if he doesn't go to college. He is far more likely to be one of the many who will do a great deal better if he does go.

A GREAT YEAR

About seven billion dollars is to be spent in 1930 in public and utility construction works and maintenance, according to Commerce Secretary Lamont. This does not include residence, commercial, and industrial building operations, which last year amounted to more than $3,000,000,000. That amount will probably be greater this year.

The president's call for pushing public work has been answered. Nine-thirty is out for a record.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

In answer to the request "Please explain the change in our attitude toward foreign trade"—America is a huge market for its own products. For years our producers were satisfied with it, without trying to sell to foreigners. Our main interest was in keeping foreigners from shipping their goods here, and competing with American producers for American customers. But during the war there was a big demand for our wares abroad, because America then was the only country still producing peace-time merchandise. We began to get the foreign trade habit then. American mass production set in about the same time. It overproduces, even for our enormous home demand; so we need foreign customers to take our surplus.

Educational

Who holds the highest educational office in the United States? Regarding it as an official position and assuming that a federal post ranks those of a corresponding nature under the respective state governments, the award probably would go to Dr. William John Cooper, commissioner of education in the interior department, though his position carries little if any authority with it but is rather advisory in its character.

The North Pole

Did Peary or Cook discover the north pole? Admiral Robert E. Peary's attainment of the north pole on April 6, 1909, is scientifically accepted as conclusively established. Dr. Frederick A. Cook laid claim to having preceded him, but his story did not stand investigation and may safely be dismissed as unfounded, though the doctor sticks to it and some persons believe him to have been more or less self-deceived.

Alaskan Gold

Who discovered gold in Alaska? What individual made the original Alaskan gold discovery is unknown. The Russians were aware of its existence there long before the country's acquisition by the United States in 1867.

Middle Names

Have ex-President Calvin Coolidge and President Herbert Hoover middle names? As to ex-President Coolidge, no. President Hoover's middle name is Clark.

Taney and Hughes

Who was chief justice of the U. S. supreme court at the time of the Dred Scott decision? Who is chief justice now? Chief Justice Roger B. Taney delivered the Dred Scott decision. Charles Evans Hughes is chief justice today, having been recently appointed.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—J. Stanley McDonald, manager of the brokerage office at the Hotel St. Regis, used to be cashier at that exclusive hostelry. You can look at Mr. McDonald, and tell right off the bat that he wouldn't linger very long back of a cashier's grill.

Men are born with their personalities as definitely shaped as their ears. Some of us are gaited to be cashiers, others destined to be stock brokers—and nine times out of ten, we settle into the niche for which nature fashioned us.

"MAIN STREET WITH A MANICURE"

The other night a new electric cigarette sign flashed out on Broadway and the whole darn street stopped to rubber. Taxi drivers, pedestrians, motormen on surface cars, men and women with tickets in their pockets for some of the best shows in town, paused to gaze and air their tonsils.

A traffic cop at 43rd street, fighting valiantly to unsnarl traffic, paused breathless to inquire: "Whaddya think this is, a hick town?" And when the audience evinced no inclination to budge, the reserves were called and the sign had to be turned off.

There's nothing out of the ordinary in that. I've been intimately acquainted with Broadway for more years than I like to recall and I've never seen the time when it didn't go "hick" at the slightest provocation. That's what makes the bloom-in' lane so human. All that sophistication stuff is just so much veneer.

Broadway—Main Street, with a manicure.

CHOW MEIN EVERYWHERE

Broadway's Chink chow mein savants are getting all het up over the fact that this pseudo-Oriental dish is being too liberally exploited by drug store lunch counters, night clubs, kosher and Harlem restaurants and hotel dining rooms.

Somebody discovered recently that chow mein and chop suey aren't Chink dishes at all, that they're unknown in the Flowery Kingdom and that those who make a practice of climbing around these dishes under the impression that they are lining their systems with

Politicians Try To Figure Meaning Of Congressman's Recent Outburst

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Congressman Franklin W. Fort, of New Jersey, may simply have had a few thoughts he wanted to give utterance to; possibly that was the sum total of the explanation back of the speech he recently made in the house of representatives.

Politicians and correspondents persist in assuming that the Jerseyman was trying to mark an epoch of some sort.

It does not necessarily follow—merely because he talked for an hour.

Plenty of congressmen feel an occasional urge to orate and, if the house managers will let them, get up and fulminate without meaning anything particularly deep-seated. True, Fort is rather an infrequent speaker.

Still, there are 200 or 300 others who often let a whole session pass in profound silence, so far as they are concerned; and then, all at once, one of them, having evolved an idea, will want all the time he can wheedle out of his floor leader, to cackle about it to his fellow members.

So why attach so much importance to the East Orange (N. J.) representative's address?

The only reason seems to be that Fort startled the lawmakers. Frank Fort was supposed, about a year ago, to be slated to figure very prominently during the present administration.

He had been in the war-time food administration.

He was one of the earliest pre-convention Hooverites. In fact, he was the Californian's pre-convention manager.

He is a natural-born boy scout—with that day's kindly action on his mind the minute he gets up in the morning—and performing it one time or another in the course of the day, if it kills someone.

He was boosted into the post of secretary to the G. O. P. national committee.

It was understood that he was to be the administration's spokesman in the house of representatives, and the impression was that a seat in the senate had been picked out for him.

And that was the last that was heard from him—or about him.

He was an administration spokesman with nothing to say.

For quite awhile there was considerable wondering what had become of him. Presently he was forgotten.

Senator Edge was appointed ambassador to Paris—and there was the toga which had been mentioned—unoccupied—until David W. Baird was assisted into it—to keep until Dwight W. Morrow is ready to wear it.

To be sure, the administration does not fill New Jersey senate vacancies.

Nevertheless, if Representative Fort had been given anything to do as administration spokesman it

Oriental grub, have another guess. It will be interesting to watch the next move of the "gentle yellow pirates," as Kipling calls 'em.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Milk Drinking

"Dear Doctor: Can a person gain weight by just drinking milk—that is about four quarts a day?"

"MRS. D."

Four quarts of milk is 2560 calories. Whether one would gain or not on this would depend mostly upon the height and physical activities, Mrs. D.

Usually when the milk diet is given for gaining purposes, more than four quarts are taken and the patient is kept in bed. That decided rest helps very much toward gaining, for not nearly so many calories of food are burned for energy needs.

While speaking of rest, I want to emphasize its value. There are many overworked, nervous individuals, who would probably recover their poise completely if they would take one day a week of complete rest in bed. Then, of course, there are cases where longer periods than this are indicated. As Glendening puts it: "When a body is sick, when a part is sick, let us not stir it up; let us calm it down."

Milk, again.—One can lose as well as gain on the milk diet, and at rest, too. By limiting the calories to a reducing number. (One ounce of whole milk is 20 calories.)

We have a pamphlet on Reducing and Gaining, which you may have, by following column rules.

Mrs. B.—I wouldn't lose hope, if I were you. It seems to me your doctor is doing the right thing; putting your father on a high fruit, vegetable and nut diet. I presume he has milk, too, and having most of his fruit and vegetables raw. We have found in recent years that so many degenerative diseases are caused by wrong chemistry of the body due to lack of vitamins and mineral elements, and, of course, on this raw diet these are supplied in full quantity and quality. This does not mean that I think we should go to extremes in this, but there is no doubt the majority of diets will be improved by the inclusion of much more raw fruits and vegetables and milk.

As the circulation in his legs is impaired, daily (or oftener) exercises known as the Burger exercises, would be valuable:

Burger describes them as follows:

"The affected limb is elevated with the patient lying in bed, from 60 degrees or 90 degrees above the horizontal, being allowed to rest upon a support for thirty seconds to three minutes; the period of time being the minimum amount necessary to produce blanching. As soon as blanching is established the patient allows the foot to hang down over the edge of the bed for from two to five minutes, until the blood flows back, the total period time being about one minute longer than that necessary to establish a good red color. The limb is placed in the horizontal position during which time heat (an electric pad or light, or hot water bottle) is applied, care being taken to prevent the occurrence of a burn. The placing of the limb in these three successive positions constitutes a cycle, the duration of which is usually from six to ten minutes. The cycles are repeated over a period of about one hour, which will mean some six to seven cycles."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following "mail charge to help cover cost of printing and handling for each article wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet ten cents in coin. The pamphlets are: Reducing and Gaining, Hygiene of Women, Kidney and Bladder Disorders. Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper. Write legibly, not over 200 words.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR MADAM: Two years ago I was engaged to be married. We had the date set, waiting until I had finished high school and given myself one year to work."

"Not long after our engagement my friend's father was taken ill and was sent to a sanitarium. That left my friend to support his mother."

"Before I finished high school his mother moved to a large eastern city in order that her relatives could help them and also to be near her husband."

"During the time he was gone we wrote all the time and I visited an aunt in the same city and was able to see my friend. We are both 22 years old. He is doing well and wants me to come to him. My mother approved of our marriage."

"She feels that he will make me happy. His mother likes me, but is inclined to believe that I am not good enough for her boy. His father is an invalid and he has to support his mother and father."

"I sometimes feel that I can't stay away and, giving second thought, that I would have to live with his mother and father, keeps me from going."

"We do not write as much as we have. I have tried to go with others and have learned to like them. But I can't make myself forget him. He tells me that I do not love him or I would come. I know we would always be happy together, but I cannot see myself married to his mother and father, too."

"I always read your column, but haven't as yet found anyone with the same trouble that I have."

"A. H. R."

I don't wonder you hesitate my dear. It is not an easy life to look forward to. It seems as if you would have to risk it, though. If you have tried to go out with others and can't forget your fiancé the chances are that you love him enough to risk the discomfort of sharing him with his family.

To my mind the gain to you will offset the unpleasantness. You will know without being told, dear.

be helping him bear his burden you know, as any good wife wants to do. You may have moments the years to come—if you marry him—when you will wish you had but if you care enough, you will never really regret it, "way down" your heart. We women are so constituted that we are really happy when we are apparently sacrificing ourselves. One knows more by learning to adjust oneself to circumstances that are not ideal, too, than by having the paths made smooth and easy.

And one thing more. If you marry him—if you find you love him enough to marry his family and be happy in spite of the hand-caps—make up your mind that you really will "marry his father and mother" as you say. Make these "our" parents, and in spite of the inevitable heartaches that will occasionally in such a situation, think you will be happier than you left him to fight it out alone or him another girl.

LONELY: If you care enough for this young man and he for you and he earns enough to support you both, why not marry him and let his wife have gone with him, but only all over the United States, but other countries as well.

SALLY ANN: I think smoking and petting are both bad for little girl. Your mother probably means by a "bee" in your bonnet wrong ideas or wrong habits that will later sting. I certainly think you are too young to be engaged or married. If you read this column regularly you will find many unhappy young women who have been married who were your age. Have a lot of good, clean fun, try to see the some of mother's ideas are very much worth while, even if the do seem old-fashioned, and you never have anything to regret.

MISERABLE: He will never know without being told, dear.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME HELENA RUBINSTEIN

The subnormal, inactive skins from which so many women suffer at this time of year (as well as the countless numbers who have passed the 30 milestone) must be actively stimulated to regain their natural vigor. There should be a constant daily—sometimes twice daily—application of some stimulating preparation which contains ingredients that rouse the blood to the skin's surface; this application to be followed by massage with a suitable tissue cream.

In this connection, let me pass on to you a little anecdote told me by a woman of my acquaintance in New York. She was a guest at a week-end party in the country recently, where winter sports were the chief diversion. But as she is a woman with a profession and had had a tiring week, instead of getting up early with the rest of the party on Sunday morning to go skating and skiing, she remained in bed resting.

Just before coming down for luncheon she gave herself a quick skin treatment, with cleansing cream, a liquid stimulant, a tissue massage cream and a finishing pat of tonic. Amazingly, it happened that her cheeks and eyes were brightest of all at the luncheon table. The other women looked pale and fatigued beside her.

I always defied the benefits of outdoor exercise and fresh air, and I, personally, cannot do without plenty of both; but in an emergency, and for those who cannot find time to exercise, they would like, I recommend the strokes, using upward, upward strokes, over eyelids, too, and your face relax while it dries, it don't smile. At the end of minutes or so, when it is dry, you feel a pleasant, drawn to lifting your facial muscles toward your hairline, wash off the mask with warm water. Then see how pink and fresh and new your looks! Like a rosebud on an June day—fresh, velvety, smothered and just a little dewy.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Xenia Central appears to have the old Indian sign on Greenville in basketball and the Big Green has never defeated the Bucs on the hardwood in the brief history of athletic relations between the two schools.

Xenia and Greenville have met five times in basketball, the rivalry extending back to the 1920-21 season when the Bucs won, 26 to 10. There was a lapse of five years but court relations were resumed in 1925-26, Xenia winning that season, 29 to 19. It has been the same story every year since. Xenia beat Greenville, 1926-27 by a score of 32 to 7, in 1927-28 the margin was 53 to 18 and last season the count was 21 to 20.

Central hopes to maintain its superiority in the Miami Valley League game with Greenville Friday night here and there is no reason to believe it won't.

Not a little dissatisfaction was expressed among Trojan fans concerning Greenville's rather surprising 17 to 15 victory over the Trojans last week at Greenville. As is usually the case, the official who refereed the contest was blamed, but Trojan supporters claim that in this instance there was good ground for this ancient alibi for the setback.

Fred P. Neff, Bucyrus, newly-appointed physical education director at the O. S. and S. O. Home, resigned, hopes to put the Home on the local map in athletics.

The Home's football team stole all the local spotlight on the gridiron last season as the institution was represented by its best eleven in years. In basketball this season the cadets have had a disappointing time and are as discouraged as Xenia Central gridgers were last fall.

Spring sports, including swimming, track and baseball, are just around the corner, however, and Director Neff plans to interest the boys in various activities, particularly swimming.

John Hurley, Xenia Central center, may have been temporarily knocked out of first place among the individual scorers in the Miami Valley League, but he has displaced Birch Bell as high point man on the Bucyrus team. Hurley's total is eighty-six points while Bell is runnerup with eighty-one, followed by Joe Smittide with seventy. Thompson, sub guard, shot a foul in the Cincinnati Withrow game last week to break into the scoring column for the first time this season.

The fur will fly Friday night at Spring Valley when Bellbrook and Spring Valley High basketball quintets meet in a return game. Spring Valley, county Class B champs last year, has tasted defeat only once this season and that was a 22 to 17 setback handed out by Bellbrook on the Bellbrook floor. The Valley basketballers have been impatiently awaiting a chance to even matters and they still have this opportunity Friday night.

Joe had the advantage of playing on their own floor. Whether they can take advantage of it is another matter because the Bellbrook lads, runnerups for the county title last year, are hard to beat when they happen to have one of their good evenings.

BABE RUTH'S FIGHT FOR HIGHER SALARY IS SCHEDULED SOON

Bambino In Place To Quibble; Yanks Need Him Soon

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—There being no greater aid to stealth and privacy than that afforded by a carnival crowd, Miami, Fla., may be the scene of two fights before the end of the month and, if so, the other one will be between George Ruth and the New York ball club. It will be over the pressing question of whether George is to be paid more than a bank president or only as much.

Anyhow, Col. Ruppert and Ed Barrow are off to Miami next week because they wouldn't think of missing the Sharkey-Scott fight and it is only a coincidence that Ruth wouldn't think of missing it, either. The colonel's interest in prize fights hereofore, as a matter of fact, has kept pace with his interest in the average street cleaner. It has been a great struggle but manfully he has managed to stay away from most of them. They hold them in his own ball yard and he stays home to keep an eye on the furnace or something. Then they take one a thousand miles away and immediately the colonel is a vid on the trail.

He must see that fight and maybe he will see two—one of them from the ringside and the other from mid-ring.

Of course, a lot of people are convinced that Ruth and the Yankees understand each other thoroughly and are only taking the press boys for a nice, long ride. Actually, however, the man has signed nothing except a luncheon check one day when he sat down with three reporters and a head waiter. Of course, too, if anything definite is done at Miami, they won't bother about disturbing the press boys in the middle of their blow by blow description of the Sharkey-Scott business. They will take their tidings over to St. Petersburg where a lot of other press boys are at their best, trying to find an honest day's work. The club, of course, will be indignant at Ruth until the very end.

Full well do I remember the last salary conference between Ruth and the colonel. They were at loggerheads in a big way and repaired to the colonel's bower, where, logged reading, he usually does his work. They were in the room five minutes when Mr. Barrow emerged, smiling and unctuous.

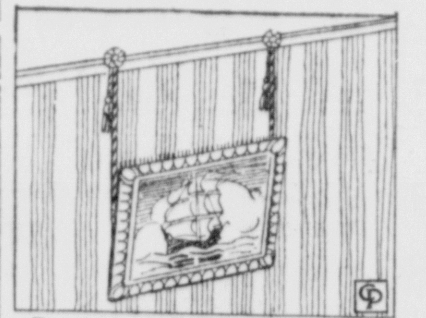

"The Babe signed a half hour ago," says he. "Come right in and watch him do it."

There was some delay while somebody found an old blotter or something. Then, with the klieg snapping and the cameras grinding, Mr. Ruth boldly signed his name upon a deathless document, which had been sent to the colonel the previous Christmas by a man named Wimpholmer, whose gefultische is unexcelled. At least, that was what the document said. Therefore, it may be that Mr. Ruth and the colonel are spoofing us again in their kindly way. The one thing that makes everything look level is that Ruth's position is most tactical for a discussion of salary. No matter whether he signs for seventy-five, eighty or eighty-five thousand dollars, he need be in no haste, because he won't see a nickel of it until the season starts late in April. Whereas, if the colonel doesn't have him signed by March 20, the club will be starting into its exhibition schedule without Ruth and really I don't think it ought to do a thing like that.

CHANGE PLACE OF TEACHER MEETINGS

Monthly meetings of teachers of Xenia Twp. schools will hereafter be held in the office of H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent, at the Court House instead of in the township school board's room in the Allen Bldg. It was decided at the regular meeting of the Xenia Twp. Board of Education Thursday night. The board also voted to invoice all school books of the township.

ROSS HIGH AVENGES DEFEAT BY CEDARVILLE, BY 35-20 VICTORY

Ross Twp. High School basketballers squared accounts with Cedarville High for a setback administered several weeks ago by defeating the Cedarville quintet, 35 to 20 in a return contest on the Ross floor Thursday night.

The score when the first quarter ended was 7 to 7 but Ross forged ahead and had a margin of 18 to 12 at the half. Four personal fouls resulted in the banishment of Gordon and Reid, Ross guards. Gordon went out in the first period and Reid was disqualified in the middle of the third quarter.

STARS OF YESTERDAY

BY AL WINFIELD

The passing of Joe (Iron Man) McGinnity in Brooklyn recently recalls to mind some of the exploits of this great old mound war horse.

His stamina during the years of his greatest activity was a marvel to behold. His arm truly seemed to be a thing of wrought iron, pliable, but tough. But it gave way sooner than was probably necessary. The strain was too great.

Several years ago, Joe, a grizzled veteran, told the writer that he really regretted his famous sobriquet "Iron Man."

"If they hadn't had me pitch those double-headers," he said, "I would have had a few more seasons at the top. I ruined my arm in a few days."

The double-headers Joe referred to were the three twin bills he pitched for the Giants in 1903, winning all six games.

If the strain of those games ruined Joe's arm it was not apparent the following year, for Joe again led the National League pitchers in 1904.

Joe hurled for the Giants in the days when Christy Mathewson was the darling of the Gotham fans. But mighty Joe outpitched the great Matty for several seasons.

McGinnity's fame dates from the Giants, but he was really a great moundsman before he ever donned the colors of Manhattan.

In the season of 1900, McGinnity hurled the Brooklyn to a pennant. This was in pre-war series days and anything that occurred before the commencement of the annual clashes between the American and National League champions is apt to be regarded as stone age stuff by today's fans.

Scoring fourteen points, Pitstick, forward, led the Ross offense while Bates tallied eleven for Cedarville.

In a preliminary game, Cedarville girls, trailing 16 to 7 in the first half, staged a comeback to 20 in a return contest on the Ross floor Thursday night.

The score when the first quarter ended was 7 to 7 but Ross forged ahead and had a margin of 18 to 12 at the half. Four personal fouls resulted in the banishment of Gordon and Reid, Ross guards. Gordon went out in the first period and Reid was disqualified in the middle of the third quarter.

CITY COMMISSION AUTHORIZES HEARING IN FIRE TRUCK CRASH

A public hearing to fix responsibility for the collision between a fire truck and an auto driven by Paul Galliger, 40 Leaman St., last December 20 in which two girls occupants of the roadster were injured was authorized Thursday night by City Commission, which directed City Manager M. C. Smith to re-open an investigation of the accident in an effort to learn whether the city is morally if not legally obligated to pay damage claims arising from the crash.

Legally, the city is not liable for damages and is powerless to remunerate the injured girls and owners of the wrecked auto for injuries and damage incurred, but the commission learned that under the terms of a recent opinion of the attorney general, a moral obligation exists.

The principal drawback, as pointed out by City Solicitor W. A. Miller, is that while under the latest ruling the city can pay the claim, there is no fund from which the money may be appropriated. The city is not permitted to issue bonds, raise the money by taxation or appropriate the money from any existing fund.

Solicitor Miller suggested that the only possible remedy would be to have the legislature pass a special bill authorizing the city to levy taxes to the amount of the total damage claim.

As the first step, however, in determining whether the city is actually morally liable to pay the claims, Manager Smith was instructed to assign a date for a public hearing and subpoena witnesses to testify as to the circumstances of the collision.

ZELL RESIGNATION ACCEPTED BY CITY; DATE NOT ARRANGED

Resignation of T. H. Zell as city auditor of Xenia was formally accepted by City Commission Thursday night but no date was fixed for it to take effect and the matter of appointment of his successor was not discussed. The retiring auditor has specified, however, that the resignation must be made effective on or before April 1 as he has other employment in view at that time. He has not divulged his plans.

Albert Randall, unsuccessful Socialist candidate for the position of city manager, revealed to the commission that he is available as a candidate for the $2,000 a year office and promised an economical administration of the position if he is selected.

Dr. P. M. Chambliss, president of the commission, said several written applications for the position of city manager have already been submitted to him but indicated that no immediate action will be taken regarding the appointment.

At the suggestion of Commissioner H. L. Binder, the commission decided to hold a special meeting sometime before the next regular meeting date to consider street paving and repair work.

FORGERY CHARGED IN AFFIDAVIT HERE

Charged in an affidavit filed by A. L. Ary, Jamestown, with forging the names of A. L. and Ardilla Ary to a note for $102.77, made payable to the Adams and Thuma Co., Jamestown, six months after April 30, 1928, with intent to defraud, John Q. Adams, Jamestown, pleaded not guilty, waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury under $300 bond by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith this week, court records disclose. Adams furnished bond and was released.

The truck, driven by Lieut. Kenneth Dice, swerved to the wrong side of the street and speeded across the S. Detroit St. crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad crossing in front of a westbound train. The truck cleared the crossing safely but crashed into the roadster, which had either stopped entirely or had slowed up on the other side of the crossing to wait for the train to pass.

DEATH DISTANCED BY BIRTHS IN 1929

Births outnumbered deaths in the Xenia city health district by twenty during 1929, according to the annual report prepared by Dr. A. D. DeHaven, city health commissioner. The report discloses that births numbered 188 and deaths totalled 168.

Fifty per cent of the milk consumed in the city was obtained from tuberculin tested cattle and 1,068 gallons of milk were distributed daily during the year.

Thirty-seven contagious diseases were reported to the health commissioner, scarlet fever predominating.

Dr. DeHaven said that 95 per cent of first grade pupils in the city schools were vaccinated and that 99 per cent of the school population was vaccinated against smallpox.

SAYS PROHIBITION STRONGER THAN EVER

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—There is a stronger backing of prohibition now than ever before, both in congress and in the state legislatures, Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, asserted today in an address before the editors' advisory section of the International Council of Religious Education.

In discussing the ten years of prohibition Cherrington stated the "permissive system" used for three centuries in the United States failed to "mitigate the evils of alcohol traffic."

DOING OUR SHARE

John R. Mott in discussing the moral and religious tasks in effecting a world brotherhood says, "The task before us is beyond our powers. It can only be accomplished by the Holy Spirit, whose powers we receive in completeness only in the fellowship of Christ's disciples."

"We call all followers of Christ to take their full share as members of his body, which is the church; no discontent with its organization or traditions or failings should be allowed to keep us outside its fold; the isolated Christian is impoverished in his spiritual life and impotent in his activities; our strength, both inward and outward is in the living fellowship."

Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?—D. Carl Yoder.

SPRING IS COMING ARE YOUR CLOTHES READY Eventually Why Not Now Xenia Dry Cleaning Co.

The time had come to call men, that they might be trained to carry on his work after He was gone.

V. 36. "When Jesus saw the multitude, he was moved with compassion for them." His heart was touched and their sufferings became his sufferings.

V. 37. "The harvest is plentiful but the laborers are few." Is it not so still? In so many places of the world the harvest is ripe for the reapers, but how pitifully few are they that are gathering it. Compassion that doesn't become conduct does others no good and does us harm.

V. 38. "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that he will send forth laborers unto his harvest." Invoking prayer for laborers, Jesus immediately furnished them himself.

V. 2. "Now the names of the twelve are these: Simon, who is called Peter, Andrew, James, John, Philip, Bartholomew, Thomas and Matthew, James Simon, the Canaanite and Judas Iscariot." This is probably the most important list of names in the world. Not one man of genius among them but God chose the weak to confound the mighty. These men unlearned and weak in themselves, could do mighty things and shake and reshape the world through Christ who strengthened them. Their simplicity, unspoiled by human philosophy made them unobstructed channels through which the grace of Christ could flow in fullest measure. Any human soul needs only the transforming touch of Christ's spirit to become forever pure and beautiful.

V. 5, 6. "These twelve Jesus sent forth. They were sent forth and their field of work strictly defined; not to the Gentiles or Samaritans but only to the house of Israel. Christ knows all places and conditions and when he chooses a field for us, however hard or small it may seem, it is the best place in all the world for us to serve him.

V. 7, 8. "As ye go, preach saying, The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand, heal, cleanse, etc." After assigning them a field, he gives them a message—the kingdom of Heaven—and to start it their tremendous mission. Their message was to be illustrated with works of healing.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. Why were the Gentiles and Samaritans not included in the evangelistic program of this lesson?

2. How is the healing ministry related to the kingdom of God?

3. Why did Jesus select his disciples from the common walks of life and why was there no representative from Jerusalem in this list?

4. In what ways has the field of the world grown greater in our days?

5. Into what definite fields are we sent?

6. What can be done to hasten the winning of the world to Christ?

Clericus says, "Spiritual ideas cannot go naked through the world but must be organized into institutions with leaders to serve as hands and feet, hearts and brains to perpetuate these ideals and give them concrete form and definite application."

Lesson Prayer, "Help us to see the needs of humanity and hear thy call to supply every need, making first things first, that thy kingdom may come to all men."

THE CONFESSION OF A FATHER

A father who had been very strict with his children, now an old man, received a letter one day from his married daughter in the west, in which she referred to his parental fault finding of many years ago.

He recounted his past experiences and wrote the following: "If I had to do it once again, I would make it a rule and set my aim never to make a cross remark or find any fault in the family. So much sweeter a taste would be left in the mouth of memory."

There is nothing that will drive one to the devil straighter than to be found fault with. To congratulate ourselves on doing well and then to receive a shock of unkind criticism is as Emerson would say, "The most unhandsome part of our condition."

A grievous look will bring more effective results than a scolding and a tender expression will win rather than a lowering brow or a snappy tongue. It was not the fire, the wind or the earthquake that

The Young Women's Christian Association of the United States will meet in eleventh annual convention in Detroit, April 25 to May 1.

Catholic scholars have produced a new translation of the Bible in English, based not upon the Vulgate, so long revered in the Catholic church, but upon the most approved Greek text of modern scholarship. It is called the Westminster version.

At least half a dozen men who have attained renown were born in February: Dwight L. Moody, February 5, 1827; Charles Dickens, February 7, 1812; Abraham Lincoln, February 12, 1809; George Washington, February 22, 1732; James Russell Lowell, February 22, 1819 and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, February 27, 1807.

The American Sunday School union of Philadelphia is offering a prize of $2,000 for the best manuscript of 60,000 words on the subject, "Religion in Public Education." Full information may be secured from headquarters of the union.

During the week of February 7th the Boy Scouts of America celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the organization. Out of 25,000 Boy Scout troops in the United States, some two-thirds are affiliated with or sponsored by churches.

Miss Evangeline Booth, commander of the American forces of the Salvation Army recently was granted an audience with the Japanese emperor. The interview was distinctive since Miss Booth is the first woman in the history of the monarchy to be granted a private audience without the presence of the Empress; instead of the usual two or three minute interview, the emperor prolonged it to fifteen minutes and at its close saluted Miss Booth. The emperor urged her to inquire into the condition of his poorer subjects and to offer suggestions as to methods of improving their conditions.

One of the hardest things about a worthwhile task is keeping at it.

Mrs. Marna Tully, wife of Jim Tully, hobo-author and pugilistic conqueror of Jack Gilbert, is reported to have established a residence in Las Vegas, Nev., for the purpose of obtaining a divorce.

This does not mean, however, that Mrs. Tully is going to divorce her famous hobo husband. In 1925 he filed suit for divorce twice and both times the cases were dismissed. She charged cruelty, stating that Tully objected to her paying $4.08 for a hat.

Tully was divorced from his first wife, Florence B. Tully, in 1923 and married his present wife in January, 1925, while Mrs. Tully was a student at the University of Southern California. The other day Tully engaged in a fist fight with handsome Jack Gilbert at a Hollywood cafe, and knocked the beautiful actor down.

It is interesting to note that Alolson will have completed his concert tour and will be back in Hollywood in April in time to make a talking picture of the play "Big Boy."

Jolson was playing in Los Angeles in "Big Boy" when the partners persuaded him to make debut in a Vitaphone picture, "The Jazz Singer." Jolson finally consented and began what, in years to come, will be a significant phase of the movies.

Warners had taken up talkies after they were scorned by other producers, and had enjoyed some success with the outland performances. Then a reaction set in and interest in talkies waned. Then was that they persuaded Jolson to make "The Jazz Singer" and the talking picture was here to stay.

Her producers went scurrying for talking equipment and Hollywood's world was turned upside down. And now Al will bring "Big Boy" to the silver sheet.

Jack Oakie is reported dissatisfied with his contract with Wesley

Ruggles. Ruggles "discovered" Jack, put him under personal contract and piloted him from unknown to known. He was found to be a good bet, his fan mail increased and he will be a star soon. Yet Jack draws down only $300 a week while it is reported his manager collected $2,000 a week for his appearance in one picture.

Zelma O'Neill, stage star of "Good News," "Follow Through," etc., will go to work for Famous Players soon in the screen version of "Follow Through." It will be her bow to the camera. Several weeks ago she was operated on for appendicitis, but is recovering. "Buddy" Rogers and Nancy Carroll will play with her in this picture.

Rex Lease is slated to do the title role in a talkie of "Billy the Kid," Peter B. Kyne's story, for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, it is reported.

Orville Smith, Jamestown, is expected to be a candidate for state representative at the Republican primary.

The Xenia Ice and Cold Storage Plant has been sold to Bruno Ritty, of Dayton.

READ THIS FIRST:

Herbert Maxwell, guardian of Patricia and Jimmy Blair, twins and joint heirs to an immense fortune, succeeds in making away with half of their estate through the substitution of a "fake brother" for Jimmy, when the settlement is made at New York. Lieutenant Rex Dallard, Dr. Frank Gordon, both in love with Pat, and Nurse Margery Lynne, all wartime friends, attempt to frustrate Maxwell's plot, but fail. Maxwell is holding the real Jimmy, an aphasia victim, prisoner, Patricia and Margery, in company with Dr. Gordon and Rex Dallard, visiting a night club after the theater, see the man who posed as Jimmy in company with a woman who held Patricia captive in Paris, at a nearby table.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXV

He had time for no more, for at that instant the young man and woman stopped at their table. The latter spoke, addressing Pat.

"Please forgive me for taking this liberty, Miss Blair," she said, her voice low-pitched but her words pronounced with a clear enunciation. Just the shade of a foreign accent noticeable. "But it is very, very important, both to you and to myself, that you are made aware of certain facts concerning Herbert Maxwell's dealings with my husband and I. It is sheer accident that brought me here to-night, and a fortunate chance that you should be here. I am entirely familiar with the part played in Maxwell's game by Jean Bouchard, this young man—" She indicated Pat's pseudo brother by a quick gesture of the head—"But if you—and your friends—" She added the last quickly—"will accompany us into the hotel's reception room, I will tell you something that must be of the most vital importance to you!"

Pat turned to Rex Dallard. Her eyes were glowing with excitement, asking him for guidance. It was a trifling incident, but the little personal appeal it carried was soothing to the love-lorn heart of the sentimental Dallard. He nodded in response to the unexpected query, and she turned back to the woman.

"We shall be glad to hear anything you may have to tell, Madame Leclerc," she said. She looked across with questioning eyes at Dr. Gordon and Margery. Both caught the meaning in the glance, and as Rex had done, nodded affirmatively. With the motion the four rose to their feet.

Jean Bouchard, the young man who had posed as Jimmy Blair, and the woman from Paris, Madame Leclerc, led the way down the long dining room to the corridor, and thence on through and into the hotel's big reception room. Here the little party of six found a private corner, chairs were drawn up, and after Pat had introduced her friends to the woman who had helped kidnap her in Paris all were seated.

Pat and her friends were eager to hear the "something of vital interest" of which Madame Leclerc had spoken. To add her in reaching every ear she had taken the center chair with Bouchard on her left and the others in front, facing her.

"In the beginning, Miss Blair," said the woman, looking directly at Pat, "I must explain how I happen to be with this young man, Jean Bouchard, who has taken such a prominent part in Herbert Maxwell's scheme to rob you, or rather, your brother, of his fortune. "The explanation," proceeded Madame Leclerc, settling herself comfortably in her chair where she could envision her small audience with a single sweep of the eyes, "carries back to a period just following the arrival in France of America's first troops. That is when I met Herbert Maxwell. I might as well admit at once that I was employed by the Austrian government and acted all through the war as a spy located in Paris. I was through him, too, that my husband, Leon, met Jean. And it was Maxwell who forced Jean—whose remarkable resemblance to Maxwell's ward, James K. Blair, had given him the idea of a scheme to rob that ward—to accept a job as spy for the German government.

"It was through Maxwell that I came to know Jean Bouchard. It was through him, too, that my husband, Leon, met Jean. And it was Maxwell who forced Jean—whose remarkable resemblance to Maxwell's ward, James K. Blair, had given him the idea of a scheme to rob that ward—to accept a job as spy for the German government. Maxwell, you see, held a club over Jean's head—the same club, as I've learned, that he held over the head of my husband, although neither, at the time, knew of the other's bondage. He—Maxwell—obtained this club one night in Paris when he, my husband, Jean Bouchard, and a French Lieutenant were playing cards in a room to which Maxwell had taken them, a place some-where on Montmartre Hill. An altercation between the Lieutenant, who had been drinking heavily, and my husband, arose, and during it the electric lights suddenly went out. An instant later a pistol shot rang out in the room. When the lights, after a lapse of a full minute, went on again, the body of the Lieutenant, shot through the heart, was just slipping from his chair to the floor.

"Maxwell instantly accused my husband of the shooting, and demanded that Leon's pistol, which was in the side pocket of the latter's coat then hanging over the back of his chair, be examined. The pistol was found to be hot from recent firing, and one cartridge was exploded. My husband naturally denied the shooting, and finally Maxwell suggested they settle the matter by leaving the place separately and each going his own way. Foolish men that they were, my husband and Jean, under the excitement of the moment, acquiesced to the proposal. "Shortly afterwards the body was discovered by the police, and in a pocket of the dead man's uniform was found a threatening note with the name, 'Jean Bouchard,' signed to it. A card bearing my husband's name was found on the floor. The newspapers told of the crime and of the note and card, giving the names of Jean and Leon as suspects. It was this club of murder that Maxwell held over Jean and my husband, forcing Leon and I to kidnap and hold you and forcing Jean to do his dirty work. The latter had lived in New York for four years, and could talk like an American. That is why he was especially valuable to Maxwell—with that and his resemblance to Jimmy Blair.

"Perhaps you won't believe me, Miss Blair," continued the Viennese earnestly, interrupting herself, "but it is true, nonetheless, that my husband and I released you a full month before the time specified by Maxwell to let you go. He discovered this some way, although he had left Paris and was then in New York. But he found out through some source and, in revenge, or for some other personal reason, notified the police of Jean's presence in Paris and also gave them his address. As a result, my husband, of course, was arrested, and owing to our connection with an enemy country, he will be convicted unless I can force Maxwell to speak in his behalf. And conviction of murder in France, you know, means the guillotine. And Leon, Miss Blair, is innocent. I know he is innocent. Jean here has told me the story, and it is word for word the same as Leon's version. Both say Maxwell must have done the shooting, that he wanted the Lieutenant killed for some reason, and took that method of killing him so that at the same time he would be getting Leon and Jean in his power.

"When my husband and I came to understand the real situation it was decided I should sail for New York and find Maxwell and Jean, whose connection with your affairs we had learned during the time we held you. It was largely because of that knowledge that we released you when we did.

"Jean has promised he will go back to Paris with me, if necessary, and tell all he knows about the shooting, despite the danger such action will entail for him. He has also promised me he will do whatever you may want him to do in order to undo the injury his aid to Maxwell has been to you. If you wish it, he will turn state's evidence, and tell in full the part he has played.

"That, I think, Miss Blair, covers, in a general way, the matter of which I spoke. I wanted you to know the truth, the reason I acted as I did in Paris. I am sure that with Jean on your side you can force old Maxwell to disgorge!"

"He has already removed from the trust company's deposit box all the securities turned over to the supposed James K. Blair," said Pat, who had made Dallard and the doctor acquainted with the facts concerning her telephone talk with Grierison. "And we've been unable to learn what he did with them," she added, dolefully.

"He deposited them in a box at the Old National bank, Miss Blair!" spoke up the young man, whose failure to get the million promised him and a box to put it in had given rise to a private conviction in his own mind that he was going to be "double-crossed" again by Maxwell.

Rex Dallard looked across at the speaker and his eyelids narrowed. "Would you be willing to aid Miss Blair to the extent of going into court and telling all you know about this scheme of Maxwell's?" he asked.

"I'd be only too glad of the chance, Monsieur Dallard!" replied Jean Bouchard, looking his question steadily in the eye.

"KONJOLA MADE TOTALLY NEW PERSON OF ME"

For Two Years Man Sought In Vain For Relief—Found It In New Medicine

What hope and encouragement are to be found in the experience of Mr. Perry Thompson, 2307 East St., Cincinnati, who tells what Konjola did for him. He said: "For two years I tried every medicine

MR. PERRY THOMPSON indicated for my various ailments and the best I got in return was failure. Indigestion and liver trouble saturated my system with poisons and impurities. I had little appetite, and what scanty food I did digest was scarcely enough to keep me going.

"I had not long to wait for results once I started the Konjola treatment, for, just as I was told it would do, it went right to the causes of my trouble. As the poisons were swept from my system I could feel new health coming over me. Today I am enjoying splendid health, and am taking on weight, now that I can eat and digest what I eat. I sincerely endorse Konjola."

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 82 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious and lasting health.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at Gailher drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. —Adv.
